POETRY.

FROM THE CONNECTICUT HERALD.
The Emigrant's Address to the Tatarian Genius of the Forest of Columbia.

TUNE—SOLDIER'S RETURN.

ALL hail! retiring Spirit, hail!
I seek thy kind embraces:
Disgusted at the city's pride,
That God's last work disgraces:
From selfish, vain and slandering man,
To tyrannical aspiring,
Oh! take me to thy friendly gloom,
From mortal broils retiring!
I hate the groveling, stunted soul,
At Mammon's altar bending;
I loathe the rusty, hoarded dust,
From fire to son descending:
I love the heart in friendship warm,
With seraph mercy glowing;
A fountain pure by Heaven supplied,
Whence pure streams are flowing!
Ah! sacred glow of forest dell,
Where Innocence reposes;
Indulgent Spirit! lay me there,
On nature's thornless roses:
The woodland choir shall aid the song
My thankful bosom raises:
And waft to Heaven's attentive ear
My undissembled praises!
When night, in starry mantle clad,
Invites to gentle slumbers:
The murmuring rill shall distant die
In Philomela's numbers:
Around me fairy dyes shall dance,
O'er sweetest sleep presiding:
The Queen of Night shall gild the stream
That down the dell is gliding!
I ask thee not for wealth or fame;
I seek for other blessing:
A competence of daily stores
Is all that's worth possessing:
A little farm—a little flock,
In verdant pastures grazing;
An evening fire, with faggots trimmed,
In cheerful flames blazing.
A Wife, that, decked in beauty's smile,
The morning viands dresses;
Her infant babe carresses;
And when the cheerful eve arrives,
Her infant babe carresses;
A friend to share our frugal cheer,
Our sorrow and our pleasure;
Indulge me these in forest glade—
I ask no other treasure!

LAWS OF THE UNION.

BY AUTHORITY.

AN ACT to authorize the extension of the Columbian Turnpike Road within the District of Columbia.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Columbian Turnpike Road Company, incorporated by an act of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed the sixth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ten, entitled "An act to incorporate a company to make a turnpike road from near E. Scott's lower mills towards Georgetown, in the District of Columbia," be, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to extend the said road from its intersection with the line of the District of Columbia to Rock Creek near Georgetown, and to locate and complete the same in the nearest and most practicable direction, and in the manner required by the twelfth section of the act of assembly of Maryland hereinbefore mentioned.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the said Company may demand and receive the same tolls as are allowed for a like distance by the act of assembly of the state of Maryland, incorporating the said Company, and shall possess and enjoy the same privileges, and be subject to the same limitations, pains, and penalties, as by the said act are prescribed, enjoined and directed: Provided always, and be it further enacted, That if the said Company shall fail or neglect to extend, locate, and improve, the said road in the direction, and in the manner authorized and required by this act, within five years, to commence from the first day of May next ensuing the passage of this act; then and in that case, the authority and privileges hereby granted, shall be, and they are hereby declared to be, forfeited and withdrawn, and this act shall cease and be of no effect.

March 3, 1817—Approved,

JAMES MADISON.

AN ACT to provide for the due execution of the laws of the United States within the state of Indiana.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all the laws of the United States which are not locally inapplicable, shall have the same force and effect within the said state of Indiana as elsewhere within the United States.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the said state shall be one district, and be called the Indiana District; and a District Court shall be held therein, to consist of one judge, who shall reside in the said district, and be called a District Judge. He shall hold, at the seat of government of the said state, two sessions annually, on the first Monday of May and November, and he shall, in all things, have and exercise the same jurisdiction and powers which were, by law, given to the judge of the Kentucky District, under an act, entitled, "An act to establish the judicial courts of the United States." He shall appoint a clerk for said district, who shall reside and keep the records of the court at the place for holding the same; and shall receive for the services performed by him the same fees to which the clerk of the Kentucky district is entitled for similar services.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That there shall be allowed to the Judge of the said district court the annual compensation of one thousand dollars, to commence from the date of his appointment, to be paid quarterly yearly at the treasury of the United States.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted, That there shall be appointed in the said district a person learned in the law, to act as attorney for the United States, who shall, in addition to his stated fees, be paid by the United States, two hundred dollars, as a full compensation for all extra services.

Sec. 5. Be it further enacted, That a Marshal shall be appointed for said district, who shall perform the same duties, be subject to the same regulations and penalties, and be entitled to the same fees, as prescribed to marshals in other districts; and shall, moreover, be entitled to the sum of two hundred dollars annually, as a compensation for all extra services.

March 3, 1817—Approved,

JAMES MADISON.

AN ACT authorizing the payment of a sum of money to Nathaniel Seavy and others.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby authorized and required to pay out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of three hundred dollars in equal proportions to Nathaniel Seavy, Richwood Mason, and Daniel Tobey, of the state of Massachusetts, their agent or legal representatives, which sum of three hundred dollars is paid to them, as an evidence entertained by Congress of their valor and good conduct in having recaptured the schooner Pink in the late war with Great Britain, and made prisoners of the prize crew of said schooner, consisting of three British seamen; which prisoners were delivered to the collector of Wiscasset, in the District of Maine; and also as a compensation for the prisoners so taken.

March 3, 1817—Approved,

JAMES MADISON.

AN ACT to amend the act entitled "An act granting bounties in land and extra pay, to certain Canadian Volunteers," passed the fifth of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixteen.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the passing of this act, no bounty in land shall be given to any Canadian volunteer, except where it shall appear that the full term of six months service shall have been performed in some corps in the United States service, and whose name shall appear upon the muster rolls of such corps: Provided, that where it shall appear, that the said term of service had not been performed by reason of wounds received in battle, or other disabilities, occasioned by the performance of his duty, while in such corps, such claimant shall be considered as having performed the full term of service for which he had engaged.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That all warrants issued in pursuance of the act entitled "An act granting bounties in land and extra pay, to certain Canadian volunteers," and which have not been located, and those which have been issued in pursuance of this act, shall be located on such lands as have been offered at public sale according to law, and no other.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That instead of the bounty given, in the act hereby amended, the following rates shall be given. For a Colonel, four hundred and eighty acres; for a Major, four hundred and eighty acres; for a Captain, three hundred and twenty acres; for a subaltern, three hundred and twenty acres; for a non-commissioned officer, musician or private, one hundred and sixty acres; and to the medical, and other staff, in proportion to their pay.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That all such parts of the act hereby amended, as shall be inconsistent with, or contravene the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That this act, together with the act hereby amended, shall continue, and be in force for a term of one year, and no longer.

March 3d, 1817—Approved,

JAMES MADISON.

AN ACT making appropriations for the support of the Navy of the United States for the year one thousand eight hundred and seventeen.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That for defraying the expenses of the Navy for the year one thousand eight hundred and seventeen, the following sums be, and they are hereby respectively appropriated; that is to say:

For pay and subsistence of the officers, and pay of seamen, one million ninety-two thousand seven hundred and thirty-two dollars.

For provisions, four hundred and ninety-six thousand seven hundred and sixty-five dollars.

For medicine, hospital stores, and all expenses on account of sick, including those of the marine corps, ten thousand dollars.

For repairs of vessels, three hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars.

For ordnance, ammunition, and military stores, one hundred thousand dollars.

For the purchase of salt petre and sulphur, twenty thousand dollars.

For navy yards, docks and wharves, one hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

For contingent expenses, including freight, transportation, and recruiting expenses, three hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

For expenses in procuring gold and silver medals, and swords, in conformity to sundry resolutions of Congress, fifteen thousand dollars.

For pay and subsistence of the marine corps, one hundred and eighty-seven thousand three hundred and eight dollars.

For clothing for the same, thirty-four thousand one hundred and sixty-six dollars.

For military stores for the same, one thousand one hundred and eighty-eight dollars.

For contingent expenses for the same, fourteen thousand dollars.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the several appropriations herein before made, shall be paid out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

March 3, 1817—Approved,

JAMES MADISON.

AN ACT to continue in force an act entitled "An act relating to settlers on lands of the United States."

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That an act entitled "An act relating to settlers on the lands of the United States," passed the twenty-fifth of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixteen, be, and the same is hereby continued in force for one year from and after the passage of this act.

March 3, 1817—Approved,

JAMES MADISON.

FROM THE NATIONAL REGISTER.

GENERAL JACKSON'S ORDER.

[The following order contains a mixture of good sense, passion, and ridiculousness. In the first place, it is perfectly correct that orders emanating from the war department, to the subordinate officer of any division, should pass through the hands of the commander in chief of that division; and in this military doctrine general Jackson, we are satisfied, will be supported by the judgment of a majority of his fellow citizens. In the second place, the tone of the general order denotes great irritability of temper, which, in an officer of general Jackson's rank, ought not to be indulged: it is unbefitting in the man; much more so in the commander. In the third and last place, it is perfectly ridiculous for general Jackson to issue an order forbidding obedience to the orders of the war department; because that department is his superior, and may command him and his whole division, or any part of it. If he does not like the arrangements of the department of war, he might resign, unless he could settle the etiquette of the service more to his satisfaction by private correspondence. There is an utter want of decorum in this public affront, thus put upon one of the principal officers of government, in the face of the whole world; and we will venture to say that for such conduct in a command in Europe, he would be instantly cashiered. We wish, in common with our countrymen, to respect the character of general Jackson: he "has done the state some service;" but he may depend upon it that public opinion is not, like an enemy's post, to be taken by storm; and he would consult his real dignity and durable fame a little more, if he were to appear less frequently in print, or at least to appear with a little more moderation than he has done in the affair of the Kentucky troops, and in the subjoined general order. The topographical report alluded to, we believe, first appeared in the National Register; it was published with the entire approbation of the competent authority; and the publication of it was fully justified by the directions congress gave for printing another report, namely: that of Major Kearney. As to the knowledge, which an enemy may gain from these publications, what is it more than he can gain by actual survey in a country at all times open to him? General Jackson, in a vein of sheer affectation, talks of the affair as if there had been an exposure of the defenses of a military post or fortified town.]

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
H. Q. Division of the South.

Nashville, April 23, 1817.

DIVISION ORDER.

The commanding general considers it due to the principles of subordination, which ought and must exist in an army to prohibit the obedience of an order emanating from the department of war, to officers of this division, who have reported and been assigned to duty, unless coming through him as the proper organ of communication. The object of this order is to prevent the recurrence of a circumstance which removed an important officer from the division, without the knowledge of the commanding general, and indeed when he supposed that officer engaged in his official duties, and anticipated hourly the receipt of his official reports on a subject of great importance to his command; also to prevent the topographical reports from being made public through the medium of newspapers, as was done in the case alluded to, thereby enabling the enemy to obtain the benefit of all our topographical researches as soon as the general commanding, who is responsible for the division. Superior officers have commands assigned them, are held responsible to the government for the character and conduct of that command; and it might as well be justified in an officer senior in command to give orders to a guard on duty, without passing that order through the officer of that guard, as that the department of war should countermand the arrangements of commanding generals, without giving their order through the proper channel. To acquiesce in such a course, would be a tame surrender of military rights and etiquette, and at once subvert the established principle of subordination and good order. Obedience to the lawful commands of superior officers is constitutionally and morally required; but there is a chain of communication that binds the military compact, which, if broken, opens the door to disobedience and disrespect, and gives loose to the turbulent spirits who are ever ready to excite mutiny. All physicians able to perform duty, who are absent on furlough, will forthwith repair to their respective posts. Commanding officers of regiments and corps, are ordered to report, specially, all officers absent from duty on the 30th June next, and their cause of absence. The army is to small too tolerate idlers, and they will be dismissed the service.

By order of Maj. Gen. Jackson,
(Signed) ROBERT BUTLER,
Adjutant-General.

AMERICAN MANUFACTURES.

At a General Assembly of the State of Connecticut, holden at Hartford, in said State, on the second Thursday of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventeen, the following was adopted:

"Whereas the Cotton and Woollen Factories established in this State, to form and finish cloths from the raw material, are from causes, which are believed to be temporary, subjected to great inconvenience and embarrassment, and deserve as far as is practicable, the relief and encouragement of this Assembly.

Resolved, as the sense of this Assembly, that the establishments in this State for the manufacture of Cotton and Woollen Goods, are of great public utility; that the protection and extension thereof are connected with the best interests of the State, and that it be and hereby is recommended to the people of the State, to purchase and use, (when they can be procured on terms equally advantageous) the woollen and cotton fabrics of this country, in preference to those of foreign countries; and that such establishments from time to time be encouraged and secured by such provisions of law, as their importance demands."

FROM THE GEORGIA JOURNAL.

FOREIGN.

NEW-YORK, JULY 8.

We have received a Gibraltar paper of the 10th of May, in which it is asserted, that the Tunisian Bashaw has been notified by Capt. Forrest, of the British frigate Astrea, in the name of the Prince Regent, that he may go to war with whomsoever he may think proper, provided he comply with the article relative to the abolition of slavery.—N. Y. Gaz.

LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

The brig Sally has arrived at Boston, in 44 days from Liverpool, bringing London papers of the 13th, and Liverpool papers and letters to the 17th of May.—Left about 40 sail of American vessels.

The London Traveller of the 13th of May states, on the authority of private advices from Hamburg, that serious differences had arisen between the courts of Stockholm and Copenhagen. The Emperor of Austria is also stated to have taken possession of Rome.

It was said, that the expedition fitting out at Portsmouth, was intended to aid the Spanish government in subduing her revolted provinces in South America.

A war between Spain and Portugal, it was rumored, would probably take place.

A letter from London of the 14th of May states, that "Mr. Adams has taken passage in the ship Washington, Capt. Forman, for New-York."

The London Globe, of the 12th of May, says, "A report is in circulation on the Continent, that the United States of America are endeavoring to obtain an establishment in the Baltic. A new treaty of commerce between them and Sweden, has just been made public, which, it is said, has existed for some time."

In the House of Commons, on the 9th of May, a motion to go into committee of the whole on the Catholic Question, was, after a long and interesting debate, decided in the negative by a majority of 24. In the House of Lords, on the 12th of May, there was also a long and interesting debate on the subject of a circular letter lately issued by Lord Sidmouth to the Magistrates of the Kingdom.

The "Army Estimates" for the current year were proposed in the House of Commons on the 12th, by Lord Palmerston. The proposed reduction, in point of numbers, during the current year, amounts to 55,300 men; and the estimate of the army expenses this year, is 1,800,000, less than the estimate of the last year.

LONDON, MAY 5.

We have mentioned in a foregoing part of this article, that the cause of the arrest of Madame De St. Jean d'Angely was not known, or at least it is not stated in the Paris papers. We have been furnished by our correspondent with some extracts from a letter written by her, as seized on the person of M. Robert, who was embarking for America.

MADAME REGNAULT DE ST. JEAN D'ANGELY.

Extracts from her letter to her husband.
"MY DEAR FRIEND—It is impossible that these miserable people can continue to exist. A revolution is inevitable. It will be terrible, but it will lead to good; and we must resign ourselves to the most painful operations for the recovery of health. Do not believe that my partiality misleads me. It is easy to see that I do not deceive myself. Ask M. de Robert; he will tell you that if he could have anticipated the effect of Germanicus, we should perhaps have been delivered from these odious wretches. It will require no very great effort to overturn them, and they feel it. If they thought themselves strong, this week would have undeceived them.

Government is obliged to change the system of mildness which it has adopted, and pursued for the last six months. It is by that they expected to lull us asleep, and many persons have said that they would do so; but things are not so bad. These men are our executioners: they are the destroyers of our honor, of our glory, of our laurels, of our industry. No possible reconciliation can take place between them and France; and every body must suffer, because every body is hostile to them.

And that man whom we have lost by our own fault, and given up to our most cruel enemies, who leave him in their power! All my strength, all my courage, fails me in the reflection, at once so painful and humiliating. He left us his son, and he knows that son is the only true king of France. But he will deliver the father. Our honor depends on it. How all those people, already so contemptible, will sink before the Colossus! I do not believe that I am credulous, my dear friend. It is the sole occupation of my thoughts; but it is that of many others, who are perhaps more active. I will tell you no more; but believe we are approaching a most happy crisis. Return quickly, that you may judge more nearly."

LONDON, MAY 12.

It is not in our own country only that a stagnation of trade is complained of. It appears by an advertisement in the Leipzig Gazette, that a meeting of the German Manufacturers was held on the 28th ultimo, at Leipzig, to consider the ruinous state of their concerns, and agree upon measures for their protection and salvation.

Numbers of French officers continue to pass through the Netherlands in quest of ports from which they transport themselves to South America, to join the Patriots. The French government, it is said, is about to adopt measures to hinder, if possible, this military emigration.

French Papers.—The Paris papers to the 10th instant, have arrived since our last. The health of the king is so much improved, that he continues to make daily excursions into the environs of Paris. M. Biacas is already on his way back to Rome, where it is probable his presence may be soon very necessary. From letters which have been received from Italy since his departure, the rumor which was afloat, but rather pertinaciously contradicted by some journals, of the dangerous state of the Pope's health, is fully confirmed. The succession will be one more enviable for dignity than emolument. The revenues of the holy See are in a most embarrassed state. Before the revolution they amounted to eight or nine millions of crowns—but at present they amount only to one-third of that sum, and a debt of 120 millions of crowns remains still to be charged.—Meanwhile the most rigid economy is said to be observed at the papal court, and among other sources to which it looks forward for a renovation of its prosperity, we observe, not without some surprise, in an article from Rome, the following very probable anticipation.

"We are assured that the prince Regent (of England) and the Emperor of Russia have made known to his Holiness their desire of concurring with him in extending the empire of our holy religion. It is believed that his Holiness, in virtue of an article in the treaty of the Holy Alliance, will be restored to the possession of various donations which belonged to the holy See in different countries. It is certain that under Christian Princes, the work of religion cannot be abandoned to chance."

The political differences in Wirtemberg have not, we regret to find, subsided into that harmony which might have been expected from the submission of the majority of the states to the will of the king. On the meeting of the states on the 30th ultimo, a tumultuous assemblage surrounded the hall of assembly, and even forced their way into the place sitting. Several members were much grossly abused, and the greatest confusion ensued.

The state prisoners in the tower have been furnished with a copy of their indictment, a list of the jury to be summoned, and also the names and residence of the witnesses against them. The latter amount to no less than 240, and among them are Sir Francis Burdett, Major Cartwright, Mr. Hunt, and many other political characters.

The accounts from Switzerland continue to be of the most distressing nature. In the eastern Cantons there is almost a famine. Zurich is endeavoring to get corn from Genoa and Venice—Uri from Italy; Fribourg has adopted severe measures against forestallers and regraters; Basle has prohibited the making of white bread; Zug has prohibited the exportation of butter, and Schwitz the exportation of hay. Under these circumstances, emigration assumes a more alarming activity—1200 families passed Jutphaus on the 23d ult. to embark for America—600 succeeded them the next day, and more were on the way. Many of them had been at the head of the linen, cotton, and silk manufactures of Switzerland.

VIENNA, APRIL 25.

His majesty the Emperor, a few days since, gave the regiment of infantry, which has become vacant by the death of General Lindenau, to the Prince of Parma, son of the archduchess Maria Louisa, and of Napoleon.

NEW-YORK, JULY 8.

The U. S. brig Saranac, Capt. Elton, which grounded on the rocks in the East river a few days since, was, on Sunday, floated by the aid of several sloops and conveyed to the navy yard at New-York. There are great hopes of her being equipped and ready for sea again in a few days.

MEXICO.—The cause of independence is reported by Col. Robinson to be most successful in the heart of the country, where the patriots have an army of 15,000 men, and are governed by a congress regularly chosen. Nothing but a supply of arms is wanting to their complete triumph. They intend to copy the institutions of the United States as closely as circumstances will permit.

FROM LISBON.—The brig Torpedo, Stafford, arrived at Baltimore on the 4th inst. from Lisbon, which place she left on the 21st of May. Capt. Stafford reports that two days before he sailed, a Portuguese Indianman from Canton arrived there, which had touched off Pernambuco, and carried the news of the revolution in that province. There were two 74's and a frigate at Lisbon, which was said, would be dispatched to Brazil in consequence of the news.

EDITOR'S CORRESPONDENCE.
ST. MARY'S, GEO. JUNE 28, 1817.

This place is in great confusion, occasioned by the alarm amongst the inhabitants of Amelia Island, on account of the Carthaginians. All the females belonging to that place have removed, and are now here; also, the valuable property has been removed, and every Spanish vessel has left Amelia Island harbor. Reports are continually circulating. The day before yesterday we heard that five armed vessels were off this bar; yesterday it was understood here that the celebrated Venezuelan general Sir George McGregor had been endeavoring to raise funds from some merchants in Charleston and Savannah, for the purpose of enabling him to collect a force sufficient to take East Florida, and that he has obtained already 163,000 dollars, which amount is to be reimbursed to the lenders in Florida lands at 20 cents an acre. This report, in part, the well informed class of the community generally believe. And today the captain of a sloop, (a man of veracity,) who came over the Bar last night, tells us, that off this Bar he spoke a large schooner under the Carthaginian flag, on board of which appeared to be at least 150 men, and that her captain told him he would give a pilot almost any sum to carry him into Amelia. The inhabitants in Florida view not these movements with the same pleasure as it is supposed they would abroad. They have so good a governor and so systematic a government at present, that they are unwilling to change it but for that of the United States. Though they have nothing particularly to fear from the officers and crews of the vessels that are off at present, as they are generally white men; yet, if Amelia Island is taken, that harbor will be the receptacle, not only of those vessels under the Carthaginian flag, manned by brigands from St. Domingo, but for all those wretches who make use of the Patriot flag only to cover their robberies, and who, therefore, would plunder from the inhabitants in the Floridas as soon as from the honest Spanish merchants, if they could do it with the same impunity.—*Nat. ### PENSACOLA.

FROM THE TRENTON TRUE AMERICAN.

Our readers will, we doubt not, be interested by the following extract of a letter to the editor:

Fort Montgomery, May 28, 1817.

"I mentioned to you in my last, that I was about to visit Pensacola, with which I was much pleased. Its proximity to the sea, the easy access to, and safety of the harbor, besides many other advantages it possesses over every other place on the Southern coast, would render it, if in the possession of the United States, one of its most important ports. The town is beautifully situated on the west side of the Bay of the same name, about nine miles from its outlet into the Gulf of Mexico; it contains about five hundred frame houses, many of them well built, on streets at right angles; the sea breeze renders it comfortable in the warmest weather, during which the thermometer is seldom higher than eighty-six, but usually stands at eighty and eighty-two, and very seldom rises to ninety; its soil is a sandy plain, (supplied with excellent spring-water,) suitable for gardens only. Although the soil is thin, it produces fine Figs, Grapes, Peaches, a few Oranges, and Pomegranates, and vegetables in abundance. In the rear is an eminence commanding a beautiful view of the town and bay, on which stands the remains of the fort.—The surrounding country is barren and unfit for cultivation, as is the province generally.

Pensacola has once been a place of wealth and importance, but the inhabitants are now few and poor, and must finally become still more so; having no commerce and relying entirely on the U. S. States for their supplies; indeed their only prospect, and almost unanimous wish, is, that it may soon belong to our government; even the military would be pleased with any arrangement that would not reflect dishonor on their nation or arms.

"The Bay is from three to six miles wide, and about fifteen in length; in short, it has more the appearance of a lake, than an arm of the sea; the outlet forms a narrow channel carrying from twenty to twenty-five feet water, and at which is the fortress of the Barrancas, which forms a perfect key to the harbor. The tide rises about two feet, once in twenty-four hours, the current of which is scarcely perceptible.

"On my return to this place I should have set out for the North, but for a prospect of a war with the Seminole Indians, which is not yet determined on; those poor deluded wretches it appears will not rest until they bring on their final destruction."

FROM THE WASHINGTON GAZETTE.

BONAPARTE'S LIFE.

The transitory and evanescent condition of human life, has, at all periods of the world, furnished a subject of painful contemplation to the moralist, and a fruitful theme for the exercise of the poet's pen. It requires but little experience in this state of probationary trial, to see the mutability of every thing human, and the absurdity of placing our hopes on the fleeting and perishable greatness of this world. But man does not seem to be much benefited by the past, or much edified by the present. His course has been the same through all ages, guided by ambition or conducted by folly. There is in him, in the language of Pope, an "aching void" that cannot be occupied, or he feels a pain he cannot subdue, and a restlessness and misery he cannot endure. The stimulus still operates, without ceasing, for the exercise to experience and to reason, and he hurries on to the goal of happiness he has in view, through the intervening objects that arise before him, with a march, sometimes undeviating, but more frequently toilsome and divergent. He perhaps, gains his point, by unceasing toil and restless perseverance; he totters on the pinnacle of his own greatness, and, in a few short years, is perhaps thrown from the summit of his elevation into the abyss of degradation and misery. The man who has filled the world with the noise of his actions, and the fame of his illustrious achievements, soon finds himself forgotten, when he ceases to rouse the feelings of mankind by the splendor of his intellect, and the brilliancy and greatness of his intellectual powers. "The utmost that we can reasonably hope or fear," says a celebrated moralist of England, "is to play our part upon the stage of life, and be forgotten."

The illustrious character, whose fate has given rise to these observations, will furnish a living example of their truth. With a mind formed for whatever was great and majestic, he burst the trammels of obscurity and indigence, in which he was confined in the infancy of life, and became the arbiter of Europe, whose destinies he wielded with a power as gigantic and stupendous as the vigor of his intellect, and the range of his views. Fortune followed him as he moved: he bore down the prejudices and the bulwarks of ages, and gave a new direction to the destinies of the world. He was indeed "without a model and without a shadow," and like the Olympian Jove, seemed to fix the fate of nations, by a nod. The heroes of the past, dwindled before him in the majesty of his greatness, and he stood alone, preeminently grand, without a rival and without an example. Yet this man, so elevated, so towering, has fallen from the painful eminence, on which he stood, and on which he astonished the world, and is now only calculated to "point a moral and adorn a tale." Perhaps, in a few years, he will live only in the pages of history, and will scarcely be remembered, and who were raised to greatness under the shade of his character or by his partiality and his power.

A work has recently reached this city, which contains a brief outline of the life of this extraordinary man, and purports to have been written by himself, but of this fact we have no positive proof. The mode of its conveyance, from Saint Helena to England, is said to be involved in mystery, and whether it be the production of Napoleon or not, must, for a time at least, be conjectured; the work, however, has merit, and is marked by that vigor and brevity which characterize the composition of this distinguished warrior, and singular man.

For the benefit of such of our readers as may not have an opportunity to peruse the work we have mentioned, we shall make several extracts, in such a way, as to enable them to have a correct understanding of the nature of the production, and of the motives which gave rise to many of the events of his extraordinary life. After declaring that the admirers of his greatness were mistaken in believing that his very infamy was marked by uncommon circumstances, he says,

"I was an obstinate and inquisitive child. My early education was as wretched as every thing else in Corsica. I acquired the French language with facility from the officers of the garrison, with whom I spent my time.

"I succeeded in whatever I undertook, because I will it: my resolution was strong, and my character decided. I never hesitated; which has given me an advantage over the rest of mankind.

He thus describes his first action:

"I studied the art of war, not on paper, but in the field. The first time I was ever in action was in a trifling affair of sharpshooters, near Mount Genevre. The fire was scattering, and only a few of our men were wounded. I felt no emotion; the occasion was not serious enough to excite any. I examined the action; it appeared to me evident that neither of the contending parties had any particular result in view. They skirmished to acquire their consciences, and because it is the usage of war. This nullity of object displeased me; the resistance irritated me. I reconnoitred the ground. I took the rifle of a wounded soldier, and prevailed on a good natured captain who commanded us to continue the fire, whilst I went with a Piedmontese.

"It appeared to me easy to gain a height which commanded their position, passing by a cluster of trees, on which our left rested. Our captain grew warm; his men gained ground; they drove the enemy towards us, and when he was broken, I unmasked my force. Our fire disturbed his retreat; we killed several, and took twenty prisoners. The remainder escaped.

"I have related my first feat of arms; not because it gained me the rank of captain, but because it initiated me in the secret of the art of war. I perceived that it is easier to beat an enemy than is generally supposed; and that the great art consists in avoiding delay and irresolution, and in hazarding only decisive movements, because it is by these means that the enemy is cut off.

His next feat of arms is thus briefly narrated:

"I sought for the best point of attack; and determined the positions which our batteries should occupy. Experienced officers found them too dangerous, but battles are not gained by experience. I continued firm; I developed my plan to Barras: he had been a naval officer; these brave men understand nothing of the military art, but their characteristic is intrepidity. Barras approved it, because he wished to finish the siege. Besides, the convention did not require from him an account of mutilated limbs; all that they required was victory.

"My artilleries were brave, and without experience: the best of all possible dispositions for soldiers. Our attacks were successful; the enemy was intimidated; he no longer dared to attempt anything against us. He stupidly showed upon us his balls, which fell wherever chance directed, but produced no effect. The fire directed by me was better aimed. Besides the desire of victory, for its own sake, I was inspired with an ardent zeal in this affair, because from it I expected promotion. I passed my time at the batteries; I slept in the trenches. Nothing is well done that is confided to others. The prisoners informed us that every thing was going to destruction in the place. It was at last evacuated in the most shameful manner.

He now repaired to Paris, and attached himself to Barras, because, he says, he knew no one else, and was prevailed upon by his patron to side with the convention against the insurgents whom he defeated in ten minutes. The consequences he thus mentions:

"This event, so trifling in itself, was attended with important consequences: It prevented the revolution from retrograding. I naturally attached myself to the party for which I had fought, and I found myself connected with the cause of the revolution. I began to study this great event, and the result was a conviction that it would triumph, because it had for its allies public opinion, numbers, and audacity.

"The affair of the sections raised me to the rank of general of division, and to a certain sort of celebrity. As the victorious party still trembled for its safety, I was detained at Paris contrary to my own wishes; for I had no other ambition than to enter into active service with my new rank.

He now became acquainted with his wife, who had, he asserts, an important influence over the events of his life, and whose memory he declares will be always dear to him.

"I was not insensible to the charms of women; but I had not yet been seriously affected by them; and my character rendered me timid in their society. Madame de Beauharnais was the first who inspired me with courage. One day as I was sitting by her, she addressed to me some flattering compliments upon my military talents. This eulogy incensed me; I continually conversed with her; I followed her every where. I was passionately in love with her, and our friends discovered my secret long before I dared to reveal it to her.

Barras undertook to negotiate the marriage, and was soon successful.

My position in the world changed after my marriage. Under the directory a kind of social order was re-established, in which I took a rank sufficiently distinguished. I might reasonably indulge the hopes of my ambition: I might aspire to every thing.

As to ambition, I had no other than that of obtaining the command of an army: for a man is nothing, unless a military reputation is the herald of his fame. I believed myself certain of establishing mine, for I felt within me the instinct of military genius; but I had apparently no well founded right to bring forward a demand. It was essential that I should acquire such a right. At that period this was not difficult.

Austria having been subsidized by England made head against them on the Rhine, and the Directory having concluded a peace with Prussia and Spain, he conceived the best policy that could be pursued was to make a diversion in Italy, and thus shake the power of Austria. The plan was immediately communicated to the Directory, and was immediately adopted, and he was appointed commander in chief of the army in Italy. He thus hurries over the events which followed his arrival in Italy:

"In three days we carried all the Austro-Sardinian posts which defended the heights of Liguria. The enemy, thus brisely attacked, collected his forces.—We encountered him at Montenotte on the 10th; he was beaten. The 14th we attacked him at Millesimo; he was again beaten, and we separated the Austrians from the Piedmontese. The latter took up a position at Mondovi, whilst the Austrians retreated to the Po, in order to cover Lombardy."

I beat the Piedmontese. In three days I carried all the positions of Piedmont, and we were within nine leagues of Turin, when I received an aid-de-camp, who came to ask for peace.

Then for the first time I considered myself not merely as a general, but as a man called to influence the fate of nations—I saw myself in history.

BALTIMORE, JULY 10.

The President and Directors of the Bank of the United States, on Monday last declared a dividend of four per cent. on that part of the capital stock which had actually been paid in agreeably to the charter. Arrangements, we understand, will be made to pay the dividend at the respective Branches to the Stockholders residing near them.

It is stated, that the profits made by the Bank during the half year, including the interest on the public stock held by the institution, are sufficient to pay the above dividend, and leave a surplus of about two hundred thousand dollars.

BOSTON, JUNE 30.

The Surveyor and assistant Surveyor employed by the United States under the fifth article of the late treaty, sailed from this port on Saturday, and will commence their labors immediately at the source of the river St. Croix, and, in conjunction with the Surveyors appointed on the part of the British government, proceed upon an actual survey of that part of the eastern boundary of the United States which lies north of the monument heretofore established by the commissioners of the two nations.

We are sufficiently sensible of the delicacy of all national questions, while in a train of negotiation, but believe that much misapprehension may be avoided by informing the public, as we now do, correctly, that while the survey of the boundary already stated, is progressing with all convenient despatch; the principal Surveyor of each nation, with a party of fifteen persons, instead of thirty, as has been suggested, will proceed in advance to explore the country to the waters connected with the St. Lawrence, and also westwardly to the source of Connecticut river.

This course, and we understand that it was the only one proposed, was undoubtedly adopted by the board of commissioners at their late session in this town, for the purpose of obtaining correct topographical information; and it is a high satisfaction to learn that steps are taken, cautiously, but amicably, to ascertain every fact necessary to a fair and honest execution of the treaty. No claim whatever has been laid before the commissioners by the British agent, or the agent of the United States—nor is it probable that there will be any before the report of the surveyors is made, perhaps in the fall of the present year. If there should then be advanced any pretension unfavorable to the interests of Massachusetts, or of the United States, we have no doubt it will be promptly and properly met on the part of the American government.

MARRIED.—On Sunday evening, July 20, by the Rev. Doctor Cloud, Mr. GEORGE WOODWARD, to the amiable Miss NANCY WHITNEY, both of this place.

AWFUL OCCURRENCE.

On Sunday last, two respectable ladies were killed by lightning in the Presbyterian meeting house in this town.—MRS. ELEANOR McCULLOUGH and MRS. ANNE LUCKIE. This truly afflicting dispensation of Providence happened during divine worship—the scene of distress and confusion among the congregation, can scarcely be imagined.—Reporter.

LATE NEWS.

NEW-YORK, JUNE 10.

The ship Minerva, captain Sketchley, has arrived in 39 days from Liverpool. The editors of the Gazette have received numerous papers, &c. to the first of June, and have given copious extracts of rather more interest than usual. The price of American products was advancing, or to use a better phrase, "looking up." We perceive too, "a speck of war," which we fear will produce in many an agreeable sensation! In this city there is another stir in the market, and prices are improving. Our harvest will be abundant, and if that in Europe should again be short, trade here will flourish.

A Liverpool paper of the 22d May, says, "within the last fourteen days, upwards of 71,000 barrels of American flour were imported into this port."

The Minerva has brought despatches from Mr. Adams to the Secretary of State.

Mr. Adams, the American minister, was to sail about the 1st of June, in the ship Washington, for New-York.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER.

Liverpool, May 21, 1817.

"Flour has advanced again to 74 a 75s. per bbl. The latter price was refused to-day for some fine Philadelphia. Cotton that had declined is also improving. Bowed 17 1-2 a 20d. Orleans 20 a 22 1-2. We are without arrivals from the United States for near a fortnight. In other articles of American produce we are without alteration."

LONDON, MAY 24.—Both Houses of Parliament adjourned last night until Friday. In the House of Peers, Lord Liverpool, on moving the adjournment, stated, that on the first day of meeting, he should communicate a Message from the Crown, relating to the State of the Nation, and then move the revival of the Secret Committee, preparatory to a further suspension of the Act of Habeas Corpus.

On Tuesday, in the House of Commons, Sir F. Burdett brought forward his promised motion for Parliamentary Reform. The Hon. Member's speech comprised a kind of historical review of the rise and progress of Parliaments. The hon. Baronet concluded his remarks by moving for a Select Committee to inquire into the state of our Representation. Sir John Nichol replied to the arguments of the Hon. Member, in a speech of considerable length and great ability; and after several other Members had delivered their sentiments in succession, the House divided—for the motion 77, against it 265—majority against the Committee, 188.

An alarming contagious fever is now prevalent in Edinburgh.

The Marquis de Cazadores, Ambassador from Spain to the Court of Brazil, who arrived from Madrid at Paris about a fortnight ago, is on the point of leaving Paris for London, in order to take part in the negotiation which the Court of London has opened to adjust the differences that have arisen between the Court of Spain and that of Portugal.

On Thursday the captain and officers from the Moorish corsair Kerahach, were landed at Deal, and proceeded immediately to the admiral's office attended by the officers of the royal navy on that station, in order, it is supposed, to investigate the particulars of the pirates and the captured vessels; but nothing has transpired as to the result. The appearance of these Tunisian ships in our seas was alluded to in the house of commons last night.

The Burdettites having consented to receive the Foxites, the political parties may be thus distinguished:

The Burdett-Foxite party, at the head of which are Sir Francis Burdett and Earl Grey.

The ministerial party and the Grenvilles, headed by the Earl of Liverpool and Lord Grenville. And though no actual junction has taken place between them, yet their principles upon almost all great points of policy, particularly of internal policy, are the same.

MAY 26.

State Papers.—We lay before our readers to-day two important state papers.—The one relates to the differences between Spain and Portugal, in consequence of an invasion, without any cause assigned, of the Spanish territories on the river Plate. Spain, as our readers know, instead of resenting at once the violation of the Portuguese territories in Europe or in America, acted with greater moderation and wisdom, and addressing herself to the other great courts of Europe, desired their mediation. To that demand, as might be expected, they acceded most readily; and we lay before our readers the joint note which their ministers delivered about the middle of March to the Portuguese Secretary of State for foreign affairs, the Marquis d'Angular.

This note is couched in a style of firmness and moderation, and leaves no doubt of the intentions of the Courts of Vienna, London, Paris, Berlin and Petersburg, to support Spain in her demand of redress, if the Court of Brazil refuse to furnish satisfactory explanations—to take immediate steps to dissipate the just alarms which her conduct has created, and to satisfy the claims of Spain, as well as those principles of justice and impartiality which direct the conduct of the mediating powers. There can be little doubt, that the Court of Brazil would, immediately after the receipt of this note, hasten to give the satisfaction required by the Court of Spain, even if events had not occurred to induce her to avoid every thing that could possibly tend to embroil her with any foreign power.

LEXINGTON, SATURDAY, JULY 26.

EXTRACT TO THE EDITOR, DATED
Washington City, July 9.

"We have had rather a dull fourth of July here, owing, I presume, to the absence of the President and Col. Monroe, as you will observe by the newspapers, goes on gaily, and has been as well received by his fellow citizens in the northern parts of the Union as those who admire him could wish. Yet I will not disguise from you the fact, that many enlightened republicans, with whom I have occasionally conversed on the subject, feel ashamed of the adulation manifested by the people of towns and cities through which he passed, and particularly the federalists of Connecticut and Massachusetts, who behaved so shamefully during the late war. Their conversion seems to be too sudden to be sincere; and there are those who are not without their fears that the enemies of the president are playing an artful game to make him unpopular with his democratic friends. But, I presume, Col. Monroe knows what these professions are worth. We have many rumors of an expedition under the patriot General Sir Gregor McGregor against Amelia Island, or East Florida; but nothing certain is known. The remainder of the Florida war, I have no doubt, soon belong to the United States; not by force, but by purchase. It has always been my opinion that the thing might be effected by a relinquishment of the claim which the United States have upon Spain for commercial spoliation, in exchange for the portion of Florida which still remains to her. Spain has no money in her treasury; and if we were to push our demands for indemnity, she could not pay, and not being willing to acknowledge her poverty, she would put us off with a thousand pretences. The independent party in South America, as late accounts inform us, have taken post on the lower side of the Orinoco; but although they have, as we are told, beaten the Royalists there, and occupied the town of Angostura, I am much inclined to think that this retreat to the Orinoco is indicative of the patriots having been compelled to evacuate all the upper country. Strange reports are circulated with respect to the supreme director of Buenos Ayres. It is whispered that he is in league with the British, who, the latest advices from London represent, are fitting out sixty sail of ships of war for some foreign expedition. May this not be for the purpose of aiding the Spaniards in recovering their possessions? or to seize for themselves some place in the southern parts of America?—Mr. Adams has not yet arrived, nor have we heard of his being on his passage, although we daily expect him. Mr. Rush, who discharges the duty of secretary of state with great assiduity, will, in all probability, be appointed to a foreign embassy—some think to London; others, to St. Petersburg. Who is to be secretary of war, is not known. Lowndes and Campbell have been spoken of. Gen. Jackson has very much exposed himself by his late General Order. He is of much too violent a temper; and, if he wishes to retain the respect of his fellow citizens, must restrain himself."

"He has taken passage in the Washington at London, for New-York."

Secretary Pope has published a defence of his letter to Mr. Allen, in which he complains of the use of "private letters for purposes of slander and electioneering;" declares that his letter contains nothing exceptional; and intimates that he would not have written it, if he had not thought he was addressing "a reasonable republican!" He thinks that his improper treatment of Mr. Allen in the letter is a subject not worthy of public investigation, and considers that the editors of newspapers were very wrong to place a particular emphasis and importance on certain expressions, by printing them in large letters! He avows himself a true "republican, not merely in name, but in fact."

The letter of Mr. Pope was exclusively political, and concerned the public. A correspondence had not been invited by Mr. Allen; he had placed no previous confidence in Mr. Pope; nor had he invited the Secretary to place any in him. Under these circumstances, Mr. Pope addresses him as a politician, in a manner highly indecorous, dictatorial, and insulting, and holds out inducements to him to become subservient to the cause and interests of the acting executive; he advises him to relinquish his right as a candidate for the legislature, in favor of another person, who would answer the Secretary's purposes, and be more certainly elected than Mr. Allen. In a word, the letter was a most singular and unwarrantable interference of a ministerial officer of the state executive in the election of representatives. It had given rise to insinuations unfavorable to Mr. Allen's integrity and standing. Mr. Allen therefore published the letter, as he was bound to do; and for the publication, he is entitled to the thanks of the community.—Dr. Franklin was reviled by the royalists in England, and the Tories in our revolution, for intercepting Governor Hutchinson's letters to the British ministry, in the same style in which Secretary Pope abuses Mr. Allen for publishing his highly improper letter. But Dr. Franklin received the grateful thanks of all good men, for exposing the base designs and misrepresentations of the ministerial minion; and so will Mr. Allen.

Mr. Pope adds insult to injury, by pretending that his letter has no improper meaning in it. The very fact of an executive officer attempting to control the candidates for the legislature, to prevent one man from continuing a candidate, and to bring forward another, is a gross breach of every principle of propriety and decorum, and such an interference of the executive in elections of representatives, as amounts to the use of "undue influence," so expressly prohibited by the constitution. When we add to this, the assurances of "good will," which a ministerial officer presents to a candidate, in order to accomplish a favorite electioneering arrangement, no man, who is not disposed at all hazards to apologize for Mr. Pope, can hesitate to say that future reward was held out to Mr. Allen as a seductive inducement for him to come into the propositions of the Secretary. The "good will" of a man in power, conveys a meaning which no delicate or honorable mind can misunderstand: it amounts to a promise to confer an office or some other favor, at a future period. By the attempt to prove that it has no incorrect meaning, Mr. Pope has exhibited his usual contempt for the public understanding.

The Secretary is, we believe, the first man who ever found fault with the use of "large letters" by newspaper Editors, in order to call the public attention to particular expressions. The complaint is childish and ridiculous, and worthy of the head that conceived it.

Every detected and exposed political knave, like Secretary Pope, denounces the editors of newspapers, when he finds that they are independent enough to reprobate his public misconduct. We can tell the gentleman that he gains nothing by such unjust denunciations.

Mr. Pope is a pure republican, according to his own account.

He was a republican, in 1798, when he favored the alien and sedition acts, by voting against resolutions reprobating those unconstitutional and tyrannical laws.

He was a republican when he supported a renewal of the charter of the federal bank, with a British capital: He was a republican, when, in a speech in the Senate, he assailed the freedom of the press, and ridiculed and spoke with contempt of public meetings of the people.

He was a republican when he opposed the war of the republicans, in 1812, for the vindication of our national rights against the accumulated aggressions of Great Britain:

He was a republican when he falsely declared that the republican administration was tricked or driven by France into that war:

He was a republican, when, after receiving the appointment of a member of a Corresponding Committee to promote the election of Mr. Madison as President, he frequently spoke against Mr. Madison, and in favor of the then federal candidate:

He was a republican when he disclaimed all further connection with the republican party, and declared that he should not have acted with them so long, but for his attachment to particular individuals among them:

He is a republican now, when federalists are his principal partisans, and when he is engaged, with them, in opposing the exercise of the right of suffrage by the people, in the choice of their governor:

He is a republican, when he has assailed the purity of representative elections, by intriguing with candidates, and by attempting to influence honorable men to become subservient to his purposes!

He is a republican, because he supports, and is zealously supported by, newspapers edited by federalists of the Boston stamp.

He is a republican, because he said to Mr. Allen, in relation to one of these federal papers, "we have a very good paper here called the Commentator," and because he says of this same federal paper, "I verily believe it is devoted to the cause of freedom and the public good!"

If these acts of Secretary Pope constitute republicanism, then is he a republican indeed; but if they betray an unsound, anti-democratic disposition; if they show the cloven foot of federalism; if they illustrate principles extremely aristocratic and hostile to the republican institutions and liberty of our country; the Secretary is, as we verily believe him to be, devoid of most of the qualities and feelings of a republican, and an aristocratic federalist in heart and conduct.

The meeting of citizens at Bryan's Station, on Wednesday, was thin. Mr. Flournoy opposed a new election of governor, and Mr. Barry supported it with his usual ability. The speech of Mr. Barry seemed to produce a strong impression, favorable to the rights of the people. In truth, the more the subject is discussed, the more rapidly do the supporters of a new election multiply.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

WILLIAM T. BARRY, Esq. will, by request, deliver a speech, at Sanders, on Saturday next, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, on political economy, with a view to illustrate the importance and superiority of a home over a foreign trade, and of cherishing our domestic manufactures. The attendance of farmers, mechanics, manufacturers and merchants is requested; and the adversaries of domestic manufactures are invited.

BRITISH POLITICS.

Mr. Grattan's motion in the English house of commons, in May, for a committee to take into consideration the claims of the Catholics of the united kingdom, was rejected. The same papers which bring us the intelligence of his rejection, announce on the authority of a letter from Rome, that the pope expects the aid and concurrence of the Prince Regent of England in extending the empire of the holy catholic religion, and in restoring property to the See, of which it has been divested in various countries! While the English government is refusing to admit the Catholics at home to the enjoyment of some of their undoubted civil and political rights, it is voluntarily aiding in the advancement of the Catholic religion abroad. What gross and arbitrary inconsistency! But this conduct is not without its motive. The Catholics of Ireland and England may be the more easily kept under the yoke of the established church and of the boroughmongers, by the Regent's show of regard for the pope, and his offers of friendship and aid in promoting the interests of the See of Rome. The pope may be thus bribed to use his controlling influence in keeping down the discontents of the Irish Catholics. Let his interests be promoted, and he will care little about the rights of the great mass of his followers.—Such, at least, seems to be the opinion of the British cabinet.

At the first or second session of the general assembly after the adoption of the constitution, when Garrard was governor and Bullitt lieutenant governor; John Breckenridge, Bullitt and a Mr. Campbell were together. There was a report that Garrard was sick and likely to die. A doubt arose between Bullitt and Campbell, whether the former would become acting governor during the balance of the term. They enquired of Breckenridge, who answered no; there must be a new election! Campbell is now living and makes this statement.—Argus.

Gazette Summary.

News from London to May the 31st has been received in New-York. The common council of London had passed strong resolutions against a renewal of the habeas corpus suspension bill. War between Spain and Portugal was expected.—The allied courts of Europe have refused to grant Lucien Bonaparte passports for America, on the ground that "America having received a great number of malcontents and French refugees," his presence here would be dangerous: they charge him with intriguing in Italy, and contemplating removing him from near the sea coast, to prevent his escape to this country.

The London Globe of the 23d of May, states, as a report from the Continental letters and papers, "that Portugal will be ceded to Spain, and that the court of Brazil will receive an indemnity in South America."—It was rumored in England, that Lord Grenville was about to be called to the administration—the earl of Liverpool to retire.—United States six per cent stock, at the latest dates, was sold at 103 1/2 in the London market.—The harvest throughout all Europe, was very promising.—The revolutions in South America, were deemed of very great importance to the trade of Great Britain.—Accounts have reached London from Cadiz, stating that the British Vice-Consul, and several other British subjects and foreigners, had been murdered at Algiers.—Arrests continue at Barcelona, and an article from Madrid relates five distinct conspiracies.—Gen. Lacy and his accomplices have been condemned to death by the court martial at Barcelona.

We attempt to publish the intelligence, that Pernambuco has fallen back into the possession of the Portuguese royalists. A letter from that place, dated May 25, says—"For the last 30 days this plantation has been strictly blockaded by the Portuguese squadron from Rio Janeiro. The custom house has been shut and no business has been done; and the town deserted by the people. On the 20th at night, the patriot army evacuated the town, marching off in a northerly direction, and on the following morning the town was taken possession of by the sailors without opposition. On the 22d, the Portuguese marched into the town, in two divisions, one of which went in pursuit of the patriot army.—The government is now established, the custom house opened, and the people begin to move in and open their shops—business resumes its former character."

A Spanish royalist gun-boat, from Concepcion, in the South Sea, boarded three American whale ships near St. Mary's in that sea, in March, and stated that she was sent out for the express purpose of inviting all the American ships to enter that port, stating that they daily expected an attack from the patriots of Buenos Ayres—that two large armies had crossed the Cordillieres, one was near Santiago, the other daily expected at Concepcion; and if the American ships did not go in to their assistance, they would be considered as enemies to the royalists. The captains of the whalers concluded the royalists wished to detain their ships for a retreat to Lima, for the safety of their persons and most valuable effects. They would not go in, but would keep clear of both sides as far as in their power. It was their opinion the captain of the gun-boat had orders to bring them in for the above purpose, but there being so many ships in company was afraid to undertake it. A severe battle was fought near Santiago, and every man was either killed or taken prisoner. The Patriots took Valparaiso 15th of March.

The Sackett's Harbor paper states, that the British military and naval force in Canada, with the exception of one company and a few marines, have orders to repair to Montreal, where, it is believed, they are to receive orders to embark for Europe. On account of this movement, the same paper says it is "the opinion of some well informed men that the Canadas are to be exchanged for some French possessions in the Mediterranean."

NASHVILLE, JULY 15.

CHEROKEE TREATY.

General Jackson and suite reached his seat in this county on Sunday evening, from the Cherokee nation. We have understood he succeeded in the object he had in view, so far as to obtain a relinquishment on the part of the tribes to all claim to Doublehead's and all other reserves in the Alabama territory and this state; and established the principle that in proportion as the tribe removed west of the Mississippi river, the United States should have possession of the country they removed from—and as it was not certain what the proportion now removed was to the whole tribe, the nation relinquished to the United States all the land claimed by it east of the Clinch river in Georgia, and west of Walder's ridge, in Tennessee, making about two millions of acres; the treaty also makes provision that the census of the whole tribe shall be taken in June next, by an agent of the United States and those willing to go to the west of the Mississippi, considered with those already there, and the land as the proportion they bear to those remaining shall revert to the United States. By this agreement there is very little doubt but the laws of the Union will in less than two years be extended over the whole country now claimed by the Cherokee tribe.

LOUISVILLE, JULY 18.

Arrived on the night of the 14th inst. at Shippingport, the steam boat Aetna, De Hart, from New Orleans, with an assorted cargo, consisting of dry goods, crockery ware, cotton, sugars, wines, liquors, fish, &c. &c. and several passengers.

POSTSCRIPT.

FROM THE SPANISH MAIN.

BALTIMORE, JULY 12.
Captain Snow, arrived this morning in the Blazing Star, from Laguaira, informs that an expedition of 3000 troops arrived at Cumana, on the 18th May, from Cadiz; and a few days after landing they were joined to the forces of General Morillo, who set out from that place for the coast of Bavia, with all the troops, leaving only a small garrison in the town, of about 56 men. On the 5th June, he, with 1200 men, marched to the Gulf of Cariaco, the remainder had embarked on board of the shipping to join him at the small town of Coruna; and after clearing the coast of the different bands of insurgents, intended to attack the island of Margaritta.

The patriot general Bolivar had reached St. Fernando de Apura, with about 1200 men; and it was generally supposed he would form a junction with Gen. Piar, near the city of New Angostura, with a view of attacking that place, which would inevitably fall, as the principal army of the royalists was completely cut to pieces by Piar, about the 20th April last. The seat of war is transferred to Orinoko, where the patriots had gained several trifling advantages.

General Marino, who had besieged Cumana for some time, retired to Cuayra, a small town on the Gulf of Paria; but would, no doubt, leave the town on the approach of Morillo. All kinds of produce high at La Guaira. Coffee could not be had at any price.

CAPTURE OF AMELIA ISLAND.

SAVANNAH, JULY 6.

We have accounts, from the South, which inform us, that the Patriots, under General GREGOR MCGREGOR, took possession of Amelia Island, on the 30th of June. They landed in the rear of Fernandina, marched through the marsh, and entered the town without a single gun being fired from the fort. The soldiers, who were in the fort, marched out and surrendered on the 1st July, instant, and the Patriot flag was then hoisted, and now waves triumphantly on Amelia Island.

We also learn, that the Patriots are making preparations for a march to St. Augustine. Though the garrison of that place is expected to make some show of resistance, it is confidently believed, the fortress will be taken without much loss of men or time.

Since the Patriot standard has been planted in East Florida, hundreds of recruits have flocked to it; and, we learn that McGregory will soon have as many men as he may require. In a few days, we shall be able to give a sketch of the formation of the new system of laws, intended for the government of Florida, and the names of the new public functionaries. The Patriots have a naval force lying before Amelia.

PERNAMBUCO, May 25.

On the 18th of this month the Patriots abandoned the city and fled in all directions, some of their leaders hanging themselves and others shooting themselves; and the same day the fortifications were taken possession of by the inhabitants; or rather the Portuguese sailors from the merchants' ships in the harbor. A scene of great confusion took place; fortunately no lives were lost.

KENTUCKY SOCIETY FOR PROMOTING AGRICULTURE.

THE next FAIR will be held at Capt. Fowler's Gardens, on the second Thursday in September.

On Friday the 1st day of August, an adjourned meeting of the Society will be held at the house of Capt. John Postlethwait in the town of Lexington, precisely at 12 o'clock. The attendance of all the members is particularly requested; as on that day subjects will be designated as the objects of premiums; judges appointed; and other arrangements will positively be made for the ensuing Fair.

By order of the Society,
THOMAS T. BARR, Sec.
July 26—6t

THE Paris, Winchester, and Georgetown Editors, will please insert the foregoing notice in their respective papers, until the 1st of August, and forward their accounts.

THE CELEBRATED BULL, RAISED by Mr. SMITH, who obtained a Silver Cup at two annual exhibitions of cattle, under the direction of the Agricultural Society, is at my farm near Lexington, for the convenience of those who wish to improve their breed of cattle. Five Dollars is the price; good pasturage on moderate terms.

This Bull excels in beauty and size any animal of his kind in the state; his calves selling from 30 to 50 dollars from common cows, and from blooded cows as high as 250 dollars. I have not heard of a single one of an inferior description—all are greatly superior to those by other bulls.
JOHN FOWLER.
Lexington, July 26, 1817—4t

FOR SALE.—Valuable property, on Short street, Lexington, Ky. a short distance below Mr. Lanphear's tavern, consisting of ONE LOT OF GROUND, 70 feet in front, running back 237 feet; on it is a two-story brick house, 25 by 38 or upwards, with good cellars and fire places; a brick kitchen adjoining; also a house for servants, of frame; a brick smoke-house; a well of good water; good fence of pales, plank and railing, as the different apartments require, together with pavements; fruit trees, &c.; a spacious garden, (railing) and poplar trees in front, &c.

Likewise, having property adjoining the above described, inasmuch as I have more than I need to occupy, I offer this also: A LOT OF GROUND, containing 35 feet in front, running back 200 feet; on it is a two-story brick house, 25 feet by 18 or more, with a good dry cellar and fire place in it, and a porch near the length of the house; all plastered a few days since—also a brick smoke-house, a new stable, carriage-house, cow-house, all of frame; good fence railing and plank with pavements (railing) and poplar trees in front, &c. Any person wishing to purchase, (exclusive of the stable and carriage-house) I shall accede to their request.

The first description of property is that which I am most desirous to dispose of, and will give a liberal credit for the principal part, and sell as low as any reasonable person will ask. Terms, one-fourth in hand, one-fourth in twelve months, one-fourth in twenty-four months, and the balance in thirty-six months. A clear and indisputable title will be given at the last payment. Any person wishing to purchase a pleasant and cheap residence, will not be disappointed by applying to the subscriber and possession given immediately, by
on the premises.

PENMANSHIP.

"Ars artem omnium conservatrix."

MR. HOWARD, having taught the art of Penmanship in some of the first schools and academies in the United States with success, has now the honor of tendering his services to the inhabitants of Lexington. His mode being on the improved Analytical System, ensures a facility and elegance of hand, in a short space of time, and demonstrates that the art is worthy of the rank it holds in the circles of polite and useful knowledge. The usual tedious and unsatisfactory methods of instruction are thereby obviated. The art is reduced into its pure original principles agreeably to the nicest discriminations of good taste, and calculated to restrain those deviations of caprice so inimical to the elegance and utility of writing.

Mr. H. engages to teach the whole routine of the art to young ladies and gentlemen in thirty-six lessons, of two hours each, for ten dollars.

Specimens of the improvement of pupils may be seen at Mrs. Howard's Seminary and at Mr. Aldridge's Academy.

A morning class for young gentlemen from 7 to 9 o'clock. Evening class for young ladies from 4 to 6 o'clock.

N. B. Stenography or short hand taught on the same conditions.

Mulberry-street, June 28, 1817.

J. CARD.

JOHN DARRAC, professor of dancing, respectfully informs the ladies and gentlemen of Lexington and its vicinity, that having received new pupils, he will open a new quarter for this season only, at his own Ball Room; where he intends teaching his pupils the most modern and fashionable art of Dancing, in all its various branches, with new and fashionable cotillions.

Persons desirous of being instructed are solicited to make immediate application to John Darrac, or at Mr. Giron's Confectionery store, Mill-street.

Days of instruction Fridays and Saturdays: the quarter composed as formerly, of 18 days or 36 lessons, from 6 to 12 o'clock in the morning, and from 3 to 6 in the afternoon.

Lexington, April 30—20—tf

Important notice to the Ladies.

THE LEXINGTON MANUFACTURING COMPANY are desirous of obtaining a quantity of fine bleached Linen and Cotton Rags, which are necessary to enable them to manufacture the important article of fine Paper, of which so much is annually imported, and might be avoided, if the patriotism or economy of the Ladies of Kentucky, would induce them to adopt the customs of the Ladies in the eastern states, viz.—To keep a Rag-Bag, which is usually hung up in a place, convenient for the purpose, and in which are deposited the rags that almost daily appear in every large family. At the end of the year year rag-bags, thus attended, will produce you a liberal sum for pin-money, and greatly aid the important manufactures of your state.

Six Cents in money will be paid for fine bleached Linen or Cotton Rags; and a price in proportion for coarser quality, or for tow made from flax or hemp.

Apply at the Lexington Manufactory, or to J. & T. G. PRENTISS.

Lexington, Nov. 22, 1815. 48—tf

ALLUVION BAKE-HOUSE.—The subscribers have erected a large Bake-house at their mills on Water-street, Lexington, opposite the Ware-house, where baking is extensively carried on. They have now on hand a quantity of Biscuit of the following kinds, viz: Pilot Bread, Navy Bread, Ship Bread, Water and Butter Biscuit; and engagements will be entered into to furnish fifty barrels of the above kinds of Biscuit per week. They have also commenced the baking of Loaf Bread. Such of the citizens who please to favour them with their custom, may be served at their own doors, before early breakfast, every morning, with any quantity they may order, fresh and warm. Bread of every description will be constantly kept at Isaac Bowles's on Cross-street, between Main and Main Cross-street, and at the house of B. Plouffe on Short-street, between Upper and Mulberry streets.

NUTTMAN, have commenced the Silver Plating Business, opposite the Kentucky Insurance Company's office, Main-street, Lexington, Kentucky, under the firm of JANUARY & NUTTMAN, where they have on hand an elegant assortment of Plated Ware, consisting of Bridle Bits, Stirrups, Spurs, Saddlery, Coach Mounting, &c. which they will dispose of at wholesale or retail on moderate terms. Country merchants and Saddlers will find it their interest to give them a call before they purchase. Old work repated in the best manner, and cash given for old Silver and Pewter.

N. B. JOHN C. NUTTMAN will continue to execute ENGRAVING of all kinds, in the nearest manner, on application as above.

40—tf Lexington, Sept. 25.

SILVER PLATING—DAVID A. SAYRE, respectfully informs his friends and the public in general, that he will continue to carry on the Silver Plating Business in all its branches, at the old stand next door above the Kentucky Gazette office, and opposite Barton & Craig's Store, Main-street, Lexington. He returns his sincere thanks for past patronage, and hopes by his strict attention to business to merit its continuance.—He has and intends keeping on hand, an elegant assortment of Plated Bridles, Bits, Stirrups, Irons, Carriage & Harness Mounting, &c. which he will sell wholesale or retail, much lower than has ever been sold in the western country. He solicits Merchants and Saddlers to give him a call.—All orders will be punctually attended to, and supplied at the Philadelphia prices.

June 28—tf

IRON WORKS.

THE RED-RIVER IRON WORKS, are now in full blast; great alterations having been made for the better in the FURNACE, and she is now making metal of a superior quality. The FORGE is entirely new, and in high operation, making BAR IRON equal, if not greatly superior to Dorsey or any other imported iron. Any orders left with Mr. Macbean, at my Iron Store in Lexington, will be executed with neatness and dispatch, having employed the best workmen the country can afford. The IRON STORE at Lexington, will be constantly supplied with IRON and CASTINGS, for the convenience of merchants, mechanics and farmers. Patterns left there will meet a speedy conveyance to the works.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

June 9, 1817.

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE.

THAT separate proposals will be received at the Office of the Secretary for the Department of War, until the 31st day of October next, inclusive, for the supply of all the troops of the United States, from the 1st day of June, 1818, inclusive, until the 1st day of June, 1819, within the states, territories and districts, following, viz:

1st. At Detroit, Michilimackinac, Green-bay, Fort Wayne, Chicago and their immediate vicinities, and at any other place or places where troops are or may be stationed, marched or recruited, within the territory of Michigan, the vicinity of the upper Lakes, and the state of Ohio, and on, or adjacent to the waters of Lake Michigan.

2d. At any place or places where troops are or may be stationed within the states of Kentucky and Tennessee.

3d. At St. Louis, Fort Harrison, Fort Clarke, Fort Armstrong, Fort Osage, Fort Osage, or the Missouri river, and at any other place or places where troops are or may be stationed, marched or recruited, within the state of Indiana, and the territories of Illinois and Missouri.

4th. At Fort Montgomery, Fort Crawford, Mobile, Fort St. Philip, New-Orleans, Baton Rouge and Fort Claiborne; and at any other place or places where troops are or may be stationed, marched or recruited within the Mississippi territory, the state of Louisiana and their vicinities, north of the Gulf of Mexico.

5th. At any place or places where troops are or may be stationed, marched or recruited, within the District of Maine and State of New-Hampshire.

6th. At any place or places where troops are or may be stationed, marched or recruited, within the state of Massachusetts.

7th. At any place or places where troops are or may be stationed, marched or recruited, within the states of Connecticut and Rhode-Island.

8th. At any place or places where troops are or may be stationed, marched or recruited within the state of New-York, north of the Highlands, and within the state of Vermont.

9th. At any place or places where troops are or may be stationed, marched or recruited, within the state of New-York, south of the Highlands, including West-Point, and within the state of New-Jersey.

10th. At any place or places where troops are or may be stationed, marched or recruited, within the state of Pennsylvania.

11th. At any place or places where troops are or may be stationed, marched or recruited within the states of Delaware and Maryland, and the district of Columbia.

12th. At any place or places where troops are or may be stationed, marched or recruited, within the state of Virginia.

13th. At any place or places where troops are, or may be stationed, marched or recruited within the state of North-Carolina.

14th. At any place or places where troops are, or may be stationed, marched or recruited, within the state of South-Carolina.

15th. At Tybee Barrack, Fort Hawkins and Fort Scott; and at any other place or places where troops are, or may be stationed, marched or recruited within the state of Georgia, including that part of the Creeks' land lying within the territorial limits of said state.

A ration to consist of one pound and one quarter of beef, or three quarters of a pound of salted pork, eighteen ounces of bread or flour, one gill of rum, whiskey or brandy, and at the rates of two quarts of salt, four quarts of vinegar, four pounds of soap and one pound and one half of candles to every hundred rations. The prices of the several component parts of the ration must be particularly mentioned in the proposals, but the United States reserve the right of making such alterations in the price of the component parts of the ration as shall make the price of each part thereof bear a just proportion to the proposed price of the whole ration. The rations are to be furnished in such quantities that there shall, at all times, during the term of the proposed contract, be sufficient for the consumption of the troops for six months, in advance, of good and wholesome provisions, if the same shall be required. It is also to be permitted to all and every one of the commandants of fortified places, or posts, to call for, at seasons when the same can be transported, or at any time, in case of urgency, such supplies of like provisions, in advance, as in the discretion of the commander shall be deemed proper.

It is understood that the contractor is to be at the expense and risk of offsetting the supplies to the troops, and that all losses sustained by the depositions of the enemy, or by means of the troops of the United States, at the price of the article captured or destroyed as aforesaid, on the depositions of two or more persons of credible characters, and the certificate of a commissioned officer, stating the circumstance of the loss, and the amount of the articles for which compensation shall be claimed.

The privilege is reserved to the United States, of requiring that none of the supplies which may be furnished under any of the proposed contracts, shall be issued, until the supplies which have been, or may be furnished under the contract now in force, have been consumed.

GEO. GRAHAM, Acting Secretary of War.
